ARROWHEAD MEN FIND CALAVERITE

O. H. Paulson and A. J. Sales, two well-known prospectors and mining men of the Arrowhead district, arrived in Ely Monday morning after a somewhat strenuous trip from the new district in Nevada, says the Record. They approached the range west of Ely just before dark when something went wrong with their car, and while Mr. Paulson was fixing it, Mr. Sales, as is his custom, became interested in the geological formation, and while doing a little prospecting he discovered a small piece of calaverite ore, which is a telluride of gold and silver. He hastened to the car, and Mr. Paulson immediately recognized the ore as classified by his partner, and realizing that they were about to make a discovery of great importance, they started to trace up the trail and continued in their search until after dark, when they used their flashlights and continued the search until they realized that they were perhaps nearer to Ely than the car, hence they decided to come on into town and make a fresh start in the morning. They were unsuccessful in locating the lead from which the ore of value had been carried down the mountain for perhaps several miles, but they have the specimen, and will in the near future make a more thorough search for the lead.

They bring in splendid reports concerning the Arrowhead district as a whole, and state that the original discovery is steadily producing a considerable tonnage of ore ranging from $150 to $250 per ton, not to mention trace specimens which are being taken out which will run into the millions. They also report that there is considerable activity in the camp which is not confined to the original discovery.

W. H. HAGEN left this morning for San Francisco.

Republican Orator Makes Appeal for Responsible Party Government and Election of Oddie and Arentz

During his speech on party responsibility and on the necessity of electing the league of nations, A. Grant Miller at the Airplane last night made a brilliant appeal for the election of Tasker L. Oddie and Samuel Arentz to represent this state in the senate and house of representatives. He pointed out the folly of electing a Republican president, which he said is a certainty, and of tying the president's hands by the election of a Democratic senate and house.

Mr. Miller came to Tonopah from Mina where he addressed a large meeting Saturday evening. Due to the breaking down of his car 30 miles from this city, he arrived here in time for the meeting but his appearance was fortuitous as soon as he began to speak. He held his audience from the first word of his speech until the last and was frequently interrupted by applause.

District Attorney Harry Atkinson presided at the meeting and on the platform with Mr. Miller were National Committeemen George Wingfield, Homer Black, W. W. Booth, W. S. Johnson, Fred Nigh, R. H. Davis and W. H. Gibson.

In introducing the speaker, Mr. Atkinson pointed out the fact that Mr. Miller had been a candidate for the nomination for United States senator in the Republican primary and how he had jumped into the fight whole-heartedly for Oddie after the latter had won the nomination.

Mr. Miller spoke for an hour and a half, pointing out his reasons for the election of Mr. Oddie and Mr. Arentz. His speech was logical, the reasoning of it was understandable and the fact that he made a deep impression upon his audience stood out in the frequent bursts of applause which interrupted him. He opened by showing the importance of the coming election, the most important, he said, in his remembrance, and pointed out that the most hopeful sign in the whole affair was that the people of this nation can reason together. He then took up the point of party government and party responsibility and asserted that the people of this nation should demand responsibility of whatever party was in power, should demand that that party should carry out the pledges of its platform. "Nothing can be more foolish," he said, "than to elect a president of one party and to tie his hands by electing a senate or a house of representatives of the opposing party."

Mr. Miller followed this by an attack upon the league of nations. He went back into history, arraying the long list of leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties who have stood for freedom from foreign entanglements on one side and on the other side he could find only Woodrow Wilson to oppose them. His references to Washington, Hamilton, Jackson, Monroe, Lincoln and McKinley drew prolonged bursts of applause from the audience. "You can't legislate peace into the hearts of people," said Mr. Miller. "All life is a growth and the desire for peace must be ingrained in their hearts. Laws cannot make a warlike nation peaceful and the league of nations cannot turn the nations of Europe from their greedy ways."

His first point against the league was that it is not necessary to go in, that there is no need of going into it. He showed how the representatives of the European nations, trained in a thousand years of diplomacy, had "put one over" on President Wilson at the Versailles conference, by providing that the resources and the manpower of this nation would be pledged to support the league and to mix into every little petty quarrel which any nations of Europe may have. The speaker then went on to ask what could we do in the league which we cannot do just as well outside of it. He pointed out that it would have jurisdiction over all foreign problems and would, through a vote of the council, extend its powers until it took in domestic problems. He flayed the position taken by Mr. Cox on the league who, he said, was first going to swallow it whole, then agreed to interpretations, then to

WILSON NOW DOUBTS WORD OF HARDING

President Asks Truth of Report That French Want New Association of Nations

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—President Wilson today addressed a letter to Senator Harding relative to the Republican nominee's statement of Saturday that he had been approached informally by a representative of the French government relative to a new association of nations. Quoting from a dispatch dated at St. Louis purporting to report the statement of Senator Harding, the president said:

"I need not point out to you the grave and extraordinary inference to be drawn from such a statement, namely that the government of France, which is a member of the league of nations, approached a private citizen of the nation which is not a member of the league with the request that the United States lead the way to a world fraternity."

Declaring that the United States has always found the government of France most honorably mindful of its international obligations and punctiliously careful to observe all principles of international law, the president wrote that he hesitated to draw the "inference" in which I have referred unless I am assured by you that you actually made the statement."

(By Associated Press)
MARION, Ohio, Oct. 18.—Senator Harding has declined since his Greenback speech to elaborate on his statement that France had sent a spokesman to him asking that America take the lead in forming an association of nations. It was said that a public reply probably would be made by the senator as soon as the matter reached him officially.
